

PRIVACY NOTICE

Why we collect your personal data and what we do with it

When you supply your personal details to this clinic they are stored and processed for four reasons (the bits in bold are the relevant terms used in the Data Protection Act 2018 which includes the General Data Protection Regulation – i.e. the law):

1. We need to collect personal information about your health in order to provide you with the best possible treatment. Your requesting treatment and our agreement to provide that care constitutes a contract. You can, of course, refuse to provide the information, but if you were to do that we would not be able to provide treatment.
2. We have a “Legitimate Interest” in collecting that information, because without it we couldn’t do our job effectively and safely.
3. We also think that it is important that we can contact you in order to confirm your appointments with us or to update you on matters related to your medical care. This again constitutes “Legitimate Interest”, but this time it is your legitimate interest.
4. Provided we have your consent, we may very occasionally send you general health information in the form of articles, advice or newsletters. You may withdraw this consent at any time – just let us know by any convenient method.

We have a legal obligation to retain your records for 8 years after your most recent appointment (or age 25, if this is longer), but after this period, you can ask us to delete your records if you wish. Otherwise, we will retain your records indefinitely in order that we can provide you with the best possible care should you need to see us at some future date.

Your records are stored on paper in locked filing cabinets and the offices are always locked out of working hours. Some of your information is also stored on our office computers. These are password-protected, backed up regularly, and the office(s) are locked out of working hours. Some of your data may be stored electronically (‘in the cloud’) using providers that have given us assurance that they are fully compliant with the General Data Protection Regulations. Access to this data is password protected and the passwords are changed regularly.

We will NEVER share your data with anyone who does not need access without your written consent unless compelled to in order to meet legal obligations, regulations or valid governmental requests. Only the following people/agencies will have routine access to your data:

- Your practitioner(s) in order that they can provide you with treatment.
- Our reception staff, because they organise our practitioners’ diaries, co-ordinate appointments and reminders and file/retrieve your notes (but they do not have access to your medical history or sensitive personal information)
- Other administrative staff, such as our book keeper. Again, administrative staff will not have access to your medical notes, just your essential contact details.

From time to time, we may have to employ consultants to perform tasks which might give them access to your personal data (but not your medical notes). We will ensure that they are fully aware that they must treat that information as confidential and we will ensure that they sign a non-disclosure agreement.

You have the right to see or request a copy of what personal data of yours we hold and you can also ask us to correct any factual errors. Provided the legal minimum period has elapsed, you can also ask us to erase your records. When requesting access to your personal data, we may require formal proof of your identity (e.g. driving licence, passport, proof of address).

We want you to be absolutely confident that we are treating your personal data responsibly, and that we are doing everything we can to make sure that the only people who can access that data have a genuine need to do so.

Of course, if you feel that we are mishandling your personal data in some way, you have the right to complain. Complaints need to be sent to what is referred to in the jargon as the “Data Controller” (in this practice it is Charles Read, 13 Claremont Road, BR1 2JL, tel 0208 467 4451, email: enquiries@charlesread.co.uk)

If you are not satisfied with our response, then you have the right to raise the matter with the Information Commissioner’s Office.
